

Labor Law and Human Resources

Labor and employment issues arise in most companies in Korea and in recent years the importance of these matters has increased along with the number of labor disputes. Our lawyers help clients prepare employment agreements, review and file the rules of employment and advise on compensation, social insurance compliance and employee-relations disputes. We advise clients about labor and employment laws, labor unions, labor management matters, counsel them about dealing with the Ministry of Employment and Labor and represent them in courts and labor commissions in labor-related civil and criminal litigations.
